CINCINNATI, 29th.

The following information was received at headquarters last night:

Colonel Pegram with 1500 to 2000 men crossed the Cumberland river a day or two since and moved north towards Richmond. He was in the vicinity of that place at the last accounts.

The prevailing opinion here is military circles is that when Pegram started he was not aware of the capture of Morgan, and contemplated assisting him to escape. The disposition of our troops in Kentucky is such that it will be impossible for him to either advance much further or escape.

CHARLESTOWN, Mass, 29th

A serious accident has just occurred here.—The boiler in Holmes' factory burst, killing one man and seriously injuring several others.

NEW YORK, 29th.

The Times publishes the following special despatch:

HEADQUARTERS Army of Potomac,
July 29th

The army to-day occupies practically the same line that it did two months ago.

As I have before stated, Longstreet's and Hill's commands, after passing through Thornton—not Chester Gap—have encamped between Culpepper and Gordonsville. Ewell's command covered their rear and flank by guarding the Blue Ridge passes. The bulk of this corps is now hewing down the Valley, and detachments threaten our lines.

A Times' despatch dated Snicker's Gap, Sunday, July 19th, says the 5th Michigan cavalry took possession of this Gap yesterday, meeting with a slight opposition only from a few of White's cavalry. The Gap is now held by Lt Colonel Brunton of the 18th Penna Infantry Regiment.

The enemy have a picket of 15 men at the ford who have seen fit to fire at every one wearing a blue uniform, but thus far without wounding any one. To-day it is reported that Mosby's cavalry is in our rear looking after the army trains, but they are now sufficiently protected to prevent loss. Our cavalry is guarding the mountain passes.

Lee's army is moving rapidly down the Shenandoah valley. Citizens who have seen his columns within the last two days say they are more like a mob than an army.

NEW YORK, 30th.

The Tribune's Washington despatch says: It is reported here by officers in from the front, that Meade threw his pontoon bridge across the Rappahannock, near the railroad, yesterday.—There was some opposition made by the enemy. The Herald publishes the following—

Nashville, 28d.

We are permitted to send you the following news collected here from a deserter just in from Bragg's army:

In the fight on Morris Island the rebels sustained a very heavy loss in killed and wounded, at first reported at 500, and then reduced to 320. Among the killed is Brigadier General Scott, Colonel Langdon Cheeves, Colonel John Lee and Major Tate. The body of Lee is in the hands of the Union soldiers and the other three had been brought into Charleston.

NEW YORK, 30th.

Steamer Geo Collins, from Fort Royal 26th, has arrived. She passed Charleston at 10 o'clock on the evening of Saturday, when the bombardment of Fort Wagner was going on.

The gunboat Paul Jones arrived this morning from Charleston harbor Sunday evening. She was ordered here for repairs, being leaky and having burst her 100-pounder on the 13th at the 7th discharge. The siege of Fort Wagner continued when she left. Gen Gilmore had succeeded in erecting a battery of heavy siege guns within 1000 yards of Fort Wagner, and everything was progressing favorably. Fort Sumter and Fort Johnson of James Island kept up a continual fire on our forces, but the casualties average only about six per day. The troops and navy were in fine spirits.

The steamer Geo Collins reports, on the morning of 26th, saw a gunboat steering for Beaufort with a bark in tow, supposed to be a blockade runner.

NEW YORK 30th.

The steamer Cosmopolitan from Port Royal 26th, with 186 of the wounded from Gen Gilmore's army has arrived. There were several deaths on the passage including Lieut Goodwin of the 9th Maine. Among the passengers are Lt Emerson of the 9th Maine and others.

NEW YORK, 30th.

All the wounded from Morris Island have been taken to Beaufort where 8 hospitals have been established. The inhabitants of Beaufort are doing everything for the comfort of wounded. The colored hospital at Beaufort has 72 wounded of the 54th Massachusetts in it.

They are well attended, Stewart Hawkins of the 1st Mass. cavalry and Dr Bentch of Florida being in charge, assisted by members of female associations.

PHILADELPHIA, 30th.

Three wards underwent the process of the draft today, the 1st, 6th and 7th. Everything passed off quietly.

The Siege of Charleston.

The Storming of Fort Wagner.

The subjoined account of recent operations in Charleston Harbor, is taken from the correspondence of the New York Tribune—

After the first unsuccessful assault on the 10th inst., General Gilmore lost no time in throwing up batteries on Morris Island, within eight hundred yards of Fort Wagner, in order to reduce it by siege. On the morning of the 18th twelve or fifteen heavy guns were in position, beside eight or ten mortars. General Gilmore, therefore determined to commence the attack, which was opened at 11 o'clock a. m.

The bombardment was conducted in a spirited manner, Gilmore's batteries beginning the work, and Admiral Dahlgren's five monitors, the New Ironsides, two mortar schooners, and three wooden gunboats joining in the engagement.

The enemy replied briskly from Fort Wagner and Battery Bee, beyond Cummings's Point, while Fort Sumter kept up a sharp fire from her southwestern guns, among which were two rifled guns of heavy calibre. Most of the fire of the rebels was directed upon the monitors and other naval vessels, only an occasional shell being sent towards the batteries. Although the iron-clads were repeatedly struck, they suffered very little real damage, and the only losses in the batteries were a Lieutenant of the 76th Pennsylvania, who was killed by a chance shot, and the wounding of six of the gunners.

The Montauk.

During all the afternoon, the iron fleet lay about one mile from the fort, but just at the close of the engagement, and but a few moments before the first assault was made by General Strong, the Admiral ran the Montauk directly under the guns of Fort Wagner, and within two hundred and eighty yards, fired round after round from his 15-inch gun, sending, as every shot struck, vast clouds of sand, mud and timber high up into the air, making one huge sand heap of that portion of the fort facing the sea, and dismounting two of the heaviest guns.

An Episode.

At half past two a shot from one of our guns on the left cut the halyards on the flag staff, and brought the rebel flag fluttering to the ground. In a moment, almost before we had begun to ask ourselves whether they had really lowered their flag and were upon the point of surrendering or not, the old red battle-flag, which the Army of the Potomac has so often had defiantly shaken in its face, was run up about ten feet above the parapet, a little cluster of men rallied around it, cheered, waved their hats, and then disappeared, and were not again seen during the day. Fort Sumter, the moment the rebel flag came to the ground, sent a shot over our heads, to assure us that it had been lowered by accident and not design. In this shot she also desired us to distinctly understand that before Fort Wagner surrendered she herself would have to be consulted. With the exception of this little episode, almost profound silence, so far as the rebel garrison themselves could maintain it, prevailed within the fort. A heavy cloud of smoke and sand, occasioned by our constantly exploding shell, hung over the fort all the afternoon, and it was only when the wind drifted away that we were able to see the amount of damage we had done. In a few hours what had been the smooth, regular lines of the engineer, and the beautiful sodded embankments, became rugged and irregular heaps of sand, with great gaps and chasms in all the sides of the fort exposed to our fire.

A Night Assault.

Soon after 6 o'clock the firing from Fort Wagner ceased. It was then known that our brave boys had succeeded in dismounting one gun, and it was also pretty well ascertained that another of the rebel pieces had burst. These facts led to the supposition that the enemy had evacuated the work, and it was determined to attempt its occupation. For this purpose, two brigades, consisting of the 7th Connecticut regiment, the 3d New Hampshire, the 9th Maine, the 76th Pennsylvania, and the 48th New York, under Brigadier General Strong, and the 7th New Hampshire, 6th Connecticut, 62d Ohio, 100th New York, and the 54th Massachusetts (colored) under command of Col. Putnam, who had been under arms all day, screened from the enemy behind a range of sand hills, in the rear of our works, were ordered forward.

This was at dusk, and both brigades were formed in line on the beach, the regiments being disposed in columns excepting the colored regiment, which, for some reason, was given the post of extreme honor and of danger, in the advance, and was drawn up in line of battle, exposing its full front to the fire of the enemy. This movement of the troops was observed by Sumter, and fire was at once opened on them, happily without doing any injury, as the shells went over the heads of the men.

General Strong, who has so frequently since his arrival in this department braved death in many forms, was assigned to the command of the first brigade. Colonel Putnam, of the 7th New Hampshire, who, although of the regular army and considered one of the best officers in the department, had never led his men into battle, nor been under fire, took command of the Second, and General Stevenson of the Third, constituting the reserve. The 54th Massachusetts (colored), Colonel Shaw, was the advanced regiment in the First Brigade, and the 2d South Carolina (negro), Colonel Montgomery, was the last regiment of the reserve. The selection of the 54th Massachusetts to lead the charge, was undoubtedly made on account of the good fighting qualities it had displayed a few days before, on James Island.

Desperate Fighting.

Just as darkness began to close in upon the scene of the afternoon and the evening General Strong rode to the front, and ordered his brigade, consisting of the 54th Massachusetts, Col Shaw, 9th Connecticut, Colonel Chatfield, 48th New York, Colonel Barton, 3d New Hampshire, Colonel Jackson, the 76th Pennsylvania and the Ninth Maine, Colonel Emery, to advance to the assault. At the instant the line was seen slowly advancing in the dusk toward the fort, and before a double quick had been ordered, a tremendous fire from the barbette guns of Sumter, from the batteries of Cummings Point, and from all the guns on Fort Wagner, opened upon it. The guns from Wagner swept the beach, and from Sumter and Cummings Point enfiladed it on the left. In the midst of this terrible fire of shot and shell, they pushed their way, reached the fort, portions of the 54th Massachusetts, the 8th Connecticut, and the 48th New York, dashed through the ditches, gained the parapet, and engaged in a hand to hand fight with the enemy, and for nearly half an hour held their ground, and did not fall back until nearly every commissioned officer was shot down. As on the morning of the assault of the 11th, these brave men were exposed to a most galling fire of grape and canister from howitzers raking the ditches from the bastions of the fort, from hand grenades, and from almost every other modern improvement of warfare. The rebels fought with the utmost desperation, and of the larger portion of General Strong's command, as long as there was an officer to command it.

When the brigade made the assault, General Strong proudly and gallantly rode at its head. When it fell back, broken, torn and bleeding, Major Plimpton of the 3d New Hampshire, was the highest commissioned officer to command it.

Another Attempt and Another Repulse.

The first brigade, under the lead of General Strong, failed to take the fort. It was the turn of Colonel Putnam, commanding the second brigade, composed of the 7th New Hampshire, 62d Ohio, Colonel Steele, the 67th Ohio, Colonel Voorhees, and the 100th New York, Colonel Dansely, to make the attempt. But alas! the task was too much for him.

Through the same terrible fire he led his men to, over and into the fort, and for an hour held one-half of it, fighting every moment of that time with the utmost desperation, and, as with the first brigade, it was not until he himself fell killed, and nearly all his officers wounded, and no reinforcements arriving, that his men fell back, and the rebel shout and show of victory was heard above the roar of Sumter and the guns from Cummings' Point.

All that human power could do to carry this formidable earthwork seems to have been done by us; would have succeeded in the morning that an officer's command from both the navy and the batteries on shore could fail to destroy every bomb-proof the rebels had erected. But the moment our men touched the parapet of the fort the rebels, 1800 strong, streamed from their safe hiding place where they had been concealed during the day, and, fresh and strong, were prepared to drive us back. We then found, to our sorrow, that the fifteen-inch shot from the monitor, even when fired at a distance of but 1050 yards, had not injured them in the least. Only the parapets of the fort had been knocked into sand heaps.

Our casualties, as may reasonably be expected, were very large. The list of killed, wounded and missing foots up fifteen hundred and thirty.

The Massachusetts 54th

A Port Royal correspondent of the New York Post writes as follows of the bravery of the Massachusetts 54th in battle, and of their fortitude and devotion, afterward while suffering from wounds:

On forming them into line Gen Strong, who had by his soldierly and kind bearing toward them secured their confidence, raising his stentorian voice, cried out, "Is there a man here who thinks himself unable to sleep in that fort to-night?" The earth rang with the thunder of their "No!" Turning to the color-bearer, he said: "Is there any man to take his place if this brave color-bearer should fall?" With lifting of hands, and leaping, and almost yelling, all through the enthusiastic ranks, came the response, "Yes! Yes!"

From General Strong himself, as he lay in the hospital four days afterward, suffering from his ghastly wound, I learned that these men "had no sleep for three nights, no food since morning, and had marched several miles." Under cover of darkness they stormed the fort, facing a stream of fire, faltering not till the ranks were broken by shot and shell, and in all these severe tests, which would have tried even veteran troops, "they fully met my expectations," said the General, "for many of them were killed, wounded, or captured on the walls of the fort. No man broke till fired upon.

The Sixth Connecticut, who had honored them as Jacksonville co-operating with colored troops, supported the Fifty-fourth in the assault. Several of the officers lying in the hospital confirm the testimony of Gen Strong. The regiment went in seven hundred strong, and brought off only three hundred and sixty sound men. Of seventeen officers, only three came out unhurt.

The number of killed have not been learned. About two hundred are now lying in our hospitals. Some, who had prophesied that the colored men would not stand fire, but had finally yielded in his favor, still contended that ghastly wounds and sufferings with slaughter and death of comrades, would quash all their love of freedom and soldiering, and silence the boasts of their friends.

On the second and fourth days after the fight I passed through nearly all the wards of the hospital. On the second day a very large proportion of their wounds had been dressed, and of course they were very painful. Some lay with shattered legs or arms, or both; others with limbs amputated. Rebel bullets grape, shell and bayonets have made sad havoc.—Standing amidst a large number, I said, 'Well, boys, this was not a part of the programme, was it?' 'Oh, yes, indeed, we expected to take all that comes,' said some. Others said 'Thank God, we went in to live or die.'

If out of it and home, how many would act last again? With brightened faces and some raising of even wounded arms or hands, all said, 'Oh, yes, yes, yes.' Some sang out, 'Oh, never give it up till the last rebel is dead,' or, 'the last brother breaks his chains,' or, 'if all our people get their freedom, we can afford to die.'"

Candor is very much praised as a virtue; but let no one attempt to practice it without discrimination. Everybody has heard the story of the woman who, having married unhappily, went to an old maid who had been the intimate friend of her girlhood, and poured out her sorrows without reserve. "I am sorry for you," said the sympathetic spinster—"I am sorry you got married." "Thank you!" retorted the wife—"but I would have you to know that my husband is better than none at all!"

A singular affair occurred on the Esplanade at Quebec on a recent Sunday afternoon. A Mr William Woods was sitting with one of his children on one of the benches, when he suddenly felt something 'snap,' as he described it, on the inside of the left thigh. A sensation of pain followed, and a moment after he felt the blood trickling down the limb. He thought a blood vessel had burst, and was put into a wagon and carried home. A surgeon was called in, and it was discovered that Mr. Woods had received a gun-shot wound. The ball has passed almost entirely through the fleshy part of the thigh.—It was extracted, and the patient is recovering. The ball is a conical one, such as is used in the regulation rifle carried by British soldiers; but no explosion of the weapon was heard by Mr. Woods or anybody else in his vicinity, and the shot was probably one discharged at a considerable elevation from a great distance.

Some people are always boasting of themselves, —of their own labors and successes, but the spoke that bears the heaviest burdens never creaks.

The fact that 'all fools are not dead yet' is the secret of the success of a very considerable number of well-to-do people in this world. For example, we have no doubt the clever fellow who advertises in the papers, "Don't fee your country! Don't resist the draft! Learn an honorable and certain way to avoid it! Enclose $1 to the address of ——, makes a very good thing of it. The dollar is received, and the answer contains only one word, and that is "Enlist"—of course.

Bangor, July 20, 1863

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier:

Are not some of our editors a little too hard on Governor Seymour? In addressing the mob as "my immediate constituents," he was certainly truthfull, as the following facts will show —Thirty-nine elective districts in New York city gave Seymour 10,981 majority, or more than his whole majority in the State. Those districts gave General Wadsworth only 1,581 votes. These 39 elective districts, according to the police books, contain 2,743 groceries, 27 notorious brothels, 170 places where thieves and ruffians habitually resort, 105 policy shops, with gambling and dance houses to match. Did he not do right, in addressing them in a friendly manner, and they in cheering him at the close of his speech? General Wadsworth carried the State, outside the city, by 22,000 majority, while the districts containing Water street dance houses, Five Points, Corlear's Hook and Mackerelville, gave him only 181 votes, and Seymour 2107! The men in the mob made him Governor of New York, and did not the gift of the highest office in the Empire State, call for his gratitude?

S. A. L.

TERRIBLE EVENT IN NORTH CAROLINA. The correspondence of the New York Herald, describing the late cavalry raid under General Potter, from Newbern, N. C., to Rocky Mount and Tarboro', and the destruction of a vast amount of rebel property at the former, and of the bridge at the latter place, states that the order to fire the bridge was given too soon. A large number of contrabands had just got over, many were still on the bridge, and many were in the other side, all eager to join our column, and flee from their masters in Dixie. Some of our own men were also on the other side, but, with a few exceptions, they contrived to make their escape. When the burning bridge fell it is stated it carried into the stream below, or consumed in the vain effort to extricate themselves, between five and six hundred poor negroes.

Among the documents captured with some of of Morgan's men, was a letter signed by several of the most distinguished rebel Generals, protesting in strong terms against the robberies which had been perpetrated by Morgan's men upon their own people in Tennessee and elsewhere.

Also Morgan's reply to the latter, in which he admits the evils, but says only enough is taken to subsist his men, and this is a necessity where the government, without providing any supplies for them, send them into destitute and wasted regions of the country. In such cases, he says, of course the inhabitants must suffer or the soldiers must starve; but he has given always the most strict orders, that nothing except what was necessary should be taken, and he feels confident that the stealing complained of has not been committed by his troops, not by any regular cavalry command; but by bands of marauders who travel through the country on the track of our army, claiming to belong now to one command and now to another, which commands of course get the credit of their depredations.

THE DRAFT LISTS IN NEW YORK. The New York Post states that none of the original draft-ing lists were either lost or destroyed during the late riots in that city, and that the draft when made will be completed from those lists.

A NOVELTY IN REBELDOM. A letter from one L. B. McFarlan, written from Shelbyville, Tenn., to his mother, in acknowledgement of the receipt of a package of clothing, gives this highly important information:

"When I opened the parcel, some of the boys remarked, "That's the first shirt tail I've seen in twelve months. Perhaps I was true. None of the Confederate shirts have tails; cloth is too scarce; so with money. A shirt with tails is indeed a rarity."

THE LAST SENSATION RUMOR. To the New York News, edited by Ben. Wood, belongs the orbit of disseminating the last sensation story in the interests of the rebel managers. It is to the effect that Mr. Stephens had a second and concealed object in going to Washington, viz: to give President Lincoln an opportunity, by means of an armistice or something of the kind, to stave off the following formidable programme, which is said to be on the way to Europe, in the pocket of an employee, of the rebel government:

"This bearer of despatches carries with him, I am told, a proposition of alliance to Louis Napoleon, in which the Confederate Government proposes to the Emperor of the French to acknowledge for ever the right of France to a protectorate upon Mexico, and upon the republics of Central America, and the offer of free trade with the South for the term of twenty-five years."

At the same time, Jeff. Davis, in complicity with the well known spirit of antagonism existing in Europe on the question of slavery proposes to modify that institution in a manner consistent with the requirements of civilization and humanity."

In exchange, the President of the Confederate Government demands the recognition of the South, and the raising of the blockade; and should this measure cause a war between the Northern States and France, ah that the Confederate Government requires is such a case is the co-operation of her navy. Neither a man nor a musket is needed from Europe, but simply vessels of war and a few iron clads.

Mr. Slidell, to whom these communications have been transmitted, is authorised to offer the same inducements to every nation that may feel inclined to comply with the wishes of the South, and particularly to Spain, to which the possession of Cuba and the southern part of San Domingo would be guaranteed forever, should she decide to lend her assistance to the permanent foundation of the Southern Confederacy.

Mr Slidell is invited to take advice of Louis Napoleon in everything belonging to the institutions to be hereafter framed by the Southern Confederacy, to solicit his opinion as regards the best means to be employed for the foundation south of Mason and Dixon's line of a strong, consolidated Government, and even to promise him a Protectorate upon Texas, should he deem the independence of that State necessary to his designs upon Mexico.

In fact, the proposition of Jeff Davis to Louis Napoleon is that of offensive and defensive alliance, attended with as large concessions as a Government can make to another without losing its freedom of action or dignity of character.

Later from Richmond.

We are indebted to Quartermaster Sawyer of the 9th Vermont or Richmond papers of Saturday last.

The Dispatch has an editorial declaring that the rebel losses at Gettysburg and Vicksburg have been greatly exaggerated by the Yankee papers, and charging rebel writers with exaggerating the losses almost as much as the Yankees. The Dispatch says down the rebel loss at Gettysburg at 15,000, and at Vicksburg 28,000.

The Dispatch is very much grieved because the New York riots have been put down. It says that there is no longer any hope of civil war at the North, which alone would enable the rebels to succeed. The "Lincoln Government" has proved too strong for copperheads as well as rebels.

The recent rebel defeats have rendered the Dispatch extremely censorious in its attacks upon the Yankees, and in an article on the President's proposed National Thanksgiving next month, it volunteers a long Te Deum for the occasion, of which the first and last paragraphs will give a good idea:

"We thank Thee, oh Divine Benevolence, that Thou hast enabled us to turn a once happy land into a dwelling place of devils, where the light of the life-giving sun is darkened daily by the smoke of death-dealing battle-fields, and the night, once irradiated only by peaceful stars, made lurid by the fires of burning dwellings.

Finally, we beseech Thee to continue this war, and make it interminable; to enable us to slaughter hundreds of thousands more of our enemies in the South, to make their wives widows and their children fatherless; to convert the garden of their land into a desert, and give their cities to the beasts of the wilderness. So we, who are Thy children, and the elect of the earth, shall give Thee high laud and glory here, and hereafter, with timeful notes, enter upon the rewards of the just—Amen."

The Whig berates the rebel authorities for not exercising more foresight in protecting Vicksburg and Port Hudson, and in getting the great collection of engines and cars at Jackson, Miss., out of the way before the federal forces captured them, and winds up by expressing the fear that even Richmond will be taken by the enemy through the inefficiency of the rebel government. It remarks:

"We cannot forbear to suggest now, since large masses of the enemy are relieved from the siege of Vicksburg and Port Hudson, and left free to move whither they please, perhaps to concentrate around and lay siege to this city, that the government gather in its resources, lay up abundant supplies while it is yet time and the means and opportunity ample, and thus avoid for the capital of the Confederacy the doom of Vicksburg and Port Hudson, which inevitably awaits it if we approve not the golden opportunity, the neglect of which has already cost us those two strongholds."

The Whig proposes to coerce England into recognition of the South. "It thus speaks of the friendliness of Louis Napoleon to the South and the coolness of England:

"The version of the interview held with the Emperor of France by Messrs. Roebuck and Lindsay, given by the Earls Montalt and copied in the Whig this morning, does not materially vary from the statement made by those gentlemen. In both accounts the fact stands out that the Emperor is ready to recognise our independence, and anxious to aid in bringing about a termination of hostilities.

It is time that we should begin to take some account of this friendly disposition of the Emperor, as well as of the opposite feeling on the part of England, which is the only impediment to the actual employment of his good offices in our behalf. There is neither justice nor policy in our continuing to hold the same attitude towards these two countries. Reciprocation on no one, and resentment as to the other are equally demanded by our own honor and self-respect.

We know of no better way of making known our sentiments and determination in this regard than the withdrawal of our Commissioner in England, and the dismissal of all British Consuls and agents in this country—while allowing Mr Slidell to remain in France and the French Consuls and agents to continue in the exercise of their functions here. We see no reason to doubt that such a procedure would be attended by the most satisfactory results."

"The Southern Illustrated News, published at Richmond, says that the fall of Vicksburg, succeeding the news of the repulse of Lee, caused the public pulse to ebb lower than ever before.—Boston Journal.

JAVA COFFEE GROWING IN VERMONT. Dr J M Currier of Newport, Vt., has Java coffee growing in his garden. He says that it matures first better than beans, tomatoes, or Indian corn.

CAPTAIN OF A SCHOONER DROWNED. Captain Herman Flagg, of the schooner 'Constitution,' lying at a North-end wharf, fell overboard yesterday and was drowned. His body was recovered. He belonged in Harrington, Me, and was 60 years of age.—Boston Traveller.

THE WOUNDED DURING THE LATE BATTLES. A distinguished medical officer has furnished official approximates of the numbers of Union and rebel wounded at Gettysburg, by which it appears that the total number of Union soldiers wounded was 11,608, and of the rebel wounded who fell into our hands 5780—making a grand total of 29,342. Taking the wounded at Chambersburg, Carlisle, Williamsport, Hagerstown, Martinsburg, Winchester, and those hurt in reconnoissances, &c., the probable number of wounded on both sides will foot up 35,000. The same medical authority says:

"Too much credit cannot be given to the lavish outpouring of every needful comfort by the public through their agencies—the Sanitary Commission, Christian Commission, Adams Express, Baltimore Fire Department, Patriotic Daughters of Lancaster, and other benevolent societies, the outlay of which must have been twenty thousand dollars per day for a period of ten days after the battle. Never has there been a greater field for benevolent societies, and never was such work more nobly and thoroughly done. It must be acknowledged that, with the present organization of the army, the Government has not the means of properly taking care of such a number of wounded as fell at Gettysburg, and if a battle anything approaching the scale of that memorable one is expected all benevolent aids that can be brought to bear should be brought under some system that will at once facilitate their operation and subserve their success."

FRENCH MENACES. The France newspaper, which is thought to represent the Empress much more accurately than the Emperor of the French, has the following in a recent article—

Who will dare to say that a recognition of the Confederacy will bring us a war with the Northern States? Where have those States a navy strong enough to resist at the same time France, England and the Southern Confederacy? How great will be the terror excited at Washington and New York by a French army, backed by a Southern army and the people of the South! The recognition of the South cannot, therefore, bring any harm, but only good to France.

U. S. CHRISTIAN COMMISSION. The following letter from the U. S. Surgeon General affords gratifying testimony to the eminent usefulness of this noble enterprise:

SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., July 20, 1863.

Dear Sir—I beg that you will accept my most heartfelt thanks for the devotion to the service of the sick and wounded soldiers at Gettysburg, manifested by the Christian Commission and its agents.

Owing to the military necessities of the occasion, the suffering would have been much greater than it was but for the aid afforded the medical officers by the benevolent individuals who came to their assistance.

I trust you will convey my thanks to those of your body who acted with the Medical Department at Gettysburg, and assure them how highly I value their labors. Begging you to accept my warmest acknowledgements for your own service in the cause of humanity.

Believe me yours sincerely,
WILLIAM A. HAMMOND, Surgeon General
George H. Stuart, Esq., Chairman U. S. Christian Commission, Philadelphia, Pa.

ARRESTS IN IOWA. The U S Marshal has arrested thirteen persons in Wapella and Mahaska counties, in Iowa, for conspiracy against the authority of the United States, and taken them to Des Moines for trial. There are a good many blatant rebel sympath zers in that portion of the State.

THE REBELS SENDING CLOTHING FROM NEW YORK. A correspondent of the Providence Journal states that in a store house which was taken on Morris Island, our troops found a large quantity of clothing. The rebel soldiers were well clad, having just received a supply of better light blue pantaloons than our troops have.—These clothes had come from New York via Nassau.

Hon Thaddeus Stevens, an uncompromising loyalist, lost about fifty thousand dollars in property destroyed by the rebels during their recent raid into Pennsylvania. It was located about 10 miles east of Chambersburg, where he gave employment to about 100 men. The property was destroyed by order of Gen Early, because, as he said, Mr Stevens was in favor of confiscating their property and arming negroes.

CONFISCATED. Eighteen hundred bottles of whiskey was discovered among the hay on board schr. B F Butler at Fortress Monroe from Boston, a few days since, and confiscated.

HOW REBELS ARE CREATED IN HAYTI. Private letters from Hayti, state that nine persons, military officers and others, concerned in the late rising, with intent to overthrow the government, had been tried by court martial and shot. It is also stated that the Government and the Legislature of the Island are at variance, and that the latter had been dismissed and sent home.

Rev E H Chapin, who has been travelling in Europe for his health, has so far recovered that he expects to return in the steamer which leaves Liverpool on the first of August. It is expected he will resume his pastoral duties early in the autumn.

A French paper says that a New-Zealand chief has just taken up his residence upon a piece of land, his right to which was contested. "I have an undoubted title to the property," he said, "as I ate the preceeding owner."

AFFAIRS IN LIBERIA. The latest news from Liberia is of a gratifying character. The college is going on prosperously; the farmers are very busy, and are enlarging their plantations of sugar and coffee a barque had just cleared from Sierra Leone for New York with twenty-six thousand gallons of palm oil, and large shipments of coffee and sugar. A commission had met at Monrovia to determine the northwestern boundary of Liberia. At Cape Palmas there is a great deal of enterprise; the vacant town lots have been put under cultivation and farming is to be undertaken on a more extensive scale.

From Cape Coast Castle we learn that there is a serious misunderstanding between the King of Ashantee and the English. A sharp conflict occurred in June, in which the English were worsted.

Garibaldi, in reply to a letter of congratulation on his recovery, says: "The hour has come when all nations must rise in arms for the holy cause of universal liberty."

The Nahant monitor carries the marks of a hundred shot received in a recent fight at Fort Wagner.

The Governor of New Hampshire has ordered volunteer companies to be in readiness for immediate service within the State. The surest way to avoid trouble is to be prepared for it.

Brutal Treatment of Prisoners at Charleston.

Our Loss at the Assault on Ft Wagner 1571.

The Blockade Runner Peterhoff Condemned.

—o—

New York, 30th

The Tribune's Morris Island correspondence says:

The entire loss in the late assault on Fort Wagner, according to official report, is 1571. The rebels claim to have buried 650 of them. An extraordinary proportion of killed could only have been reached by the indiscriminate slaughter of our wounded.

The rebels hold eight of our wounded are at Charleston and Columbia.

The officers and men of the 54th Massachusetts (colored) will not be given up to us, and unofficial reports say, the negroes have been sold into slavery, and the officers treated with unmeasured abuse. In fact, all our wounded at Charleston have been treated most barbarously. Opportunities to amputate were eagerly seized on by rebel surgeons, and it was performed in cases of the slightest gunshot wound.

On the left our batteries were advanced 800 yards nearer Sumter on the 25th, and six 200-pounders have been placed in position.

Lieut Colonel Leggett, of the 10th Connecticut Regiment, lost his leg on the 21th by a shell from Fort Johnson.

Washington, 30th.

Judge Betts has decided to condemn the C Hart, Springbok, and Peterhoff, for constructive violation of the blockade. The decision will be given to the public to morrow or Saturday.

Among the passengers from New Orleans per steamer Matanzas, are Major General Augur and staff, and Colonels Bartlett, Albert and [illegible].

Chicago, 30th

A special despatch from St Paul says that reports from Captain Fisher's expedition say that positive information has been received of the utter discomfiture of Little Crow and the entire desertion of all his followers but 60, and [illegible] to the Yellow Stone, beyond the [illegible]. The other chiefs are awaiting the opportunity to surrender themselves and their [illegible].

Morgan and several of his officers arrived at Columbus this afternoon, and were lodged in the penitentiary, where they will be confined according to the rules of that institution.

Hon Daniel C. Baker of Lynn, Mass, died at New Orleans on the 19th.

Maj. Gen. Franklin and staff arrived at New Orleans on the 20th.

One hundred and forty-six rebel officers have been sent to New Orleans from Port Hudson.

The Era says the guns and ammunition captured at Port Hudson prove larger in number and quantity than reported by the rebels.

The Vicksburg paroled prisoners at New Orleans have been sent to Mobile.

A Matamoras letter of June 16th to the Era, mentions the rumor that 7000 French soldiers are on the way there from Vera Cruz. The Mexicans will give them a warm reception and fight to the last.

Some 5000 or 6000 refugees from Texas have passed through Matamoras to escape the rebel conscription or hanging. Texas would be loyal if the rebels were driven out.

The Era of the 23d says, reports apparently trustworthy state that Johnston has been severely whipped at Jackson. Breckenridge's division was cut to pieces, and the victory of our [illegible].

A Post Office has been opened at Port Hudson.

The water has risen in the Mississippi 10 feet.

Several Steamers from Memphis, Vicksburg, Natchez and other river cities had arrived at Port Hudson.

Colonel Chickering, Provost Marshal of Port Hudson, had ordered all civilians to leave the place.

Two river steamers have been found near Port Hudson, which were immediately taken by our Quartermaster.

A portion of rebel paroled prisoners had been sent from Port Hudson to Red River, under guard of the 30th Massachusetts Regiment.

A large number of cannon continued to be discovered at Port Hudson.

Philadelphia, 30th.

Among those who were so lucky as to be honored with the draft to-day were three telegraphers, making 15 in all from the American Company, including James Merrihew, Assistant Manager. James J Revills of the Continental office, and W. Carley, clerks, were also drafted. It is proposed here by these lucky telegraphers, to apply for a separate organization as a company of telegraph duty.

Most of the wounded officers of eastern regiments from Morris Island left for Boston this evening.

Lieutenant Colonel Hallowell is wounded in three places and has gone to Philadelphia to the residence of his father. He describes the fight at Fort Wagner as the most desperate contest he was ever engaged in, and extols the valor of the 54th Mass. as almost unprecedented.

The funeral of Brig Gen Strong will take place on Saturday, the 8th regiment and Fifth battery regulars forming the escort. The remains will be interred in Greenwood.

Luke Burbash, Co H, 52d Massachusetts regiment, died on board the steamer Matanzas.

Philadelphia, 30th

J Cooke, Subscription Agent, reports the sale of $1,568,460 worth of 5-20's at various agencies to-day. Deliveries of bonds are being made to July 1st, inclusive.

Washington, 30th.

Advices from the army of the Potomac tonight say the 11th corps is to be broken up. The first division will go with Major General Howard, who takes command of the 2d corps. The second division will be incorporated with the 12th corps, and the other, Carl Schurz, has an independent position to guard the Orange & Alexandria Railroad from Manassas to the Rappahannock.

There have been no important field operations for some time, but our cavalry have been reconnoitering the country between Warrenton and Culpepper. They have met only small scouting parties of the enemy.

The Prospect at Charleston. Mr Fulton of the Baltimore American, being on his way to Charleston, writes—

"I do not anticipate any very rapid movements on the part of General Gilmore and Admiral Dahlgren. The plan adopted will probably be that of a regular siege, and after Morris Island is in our possession, it will require a couple of weeks to get the siege guns ready for a combined attack, by land, and sea, on Fort Sumter. They are proceeding slowly but surely, which gives assurance of ultimate success. No place ever yet resisted an energetic and determined siege, and there is no imaginable reason why Charleston should be an exception.

It is said that the enemy, knowing by the effect of the last attack the impossibility of Fort Sumter resisting the shot of the Monitors, has abandoned all his casemates and packed them full of sand bags, relying altogether on the parapet guns. If this is so, it sustains the statement of parties from Charleston that the balls of the Monitors passed entirely through the walls, and that if the fight had been renewed or continued twenty minutes longer, Sumter would have surrendered.

If the casemates are thus packed with bags of sand its reduction will be a more difficult matter now than it would have been in April last.—They have also on the parapet, in addition to their former armament, the two 11-inch guns of the Keokuk recovered from the wreck whilst lying almost under the guns of our fleet."

Some of the nine months men at New Orleans are to go up the Mississippi on their return home. Gen. Banks when he went to Orleans said he would return by way of Cairo, which is now rendered very probable.

Gen. E. Q. A. Gilmore is a native of Ohio, and graduated at West Point in 1844, with the first honors of his class.

Air Sunshine and Health. A merchant noticed, in the progress of years, that each successive book-keeper gradually lost his health, and finally died of consumption, however vigorous and robust he was on entering his service. At length it occurred to him that the little rear room where the books were kept, opened into a back yard, so surrounded by high walls that no sunshine came into the room from one year's end to another. An upper room, well lighted, was immediately prepared, and his clerks had uniform good health ever after.

A familiar case to general readers is derived from medical works, where an entire English family became ill, and all remedies seemed to fail of their usual results, when accidentally a window glass of the family room was broken in cold weather. It was not repaired, and forthwith there was a marked improvement in the health of the inmates. The physician at once traced the connection, discontinued his medicines, and ordered that the window pane should not be repaired.

A French lady became ill. The most eminent physicians of her time were called in, but failed to restore her. At length Dupuytren, the Napoleon of physic, was consulted. He noticed that she lived in a dim room, into which the sun never shone, the house being situated in one of the narrow streets, or rather lanes of Paris. He at once ordered more airy and cheerful apartments, and "all her complaints vanished."

The lungs of a dog become tuberculated, (consumptive in a few weeks,) if kept confined in a dark cellar. The most common plant grows spindly, pale and straggling, if no sunlight falls upon it. The greatest medical names in France, of the last century, regarded sunshine and pure air as equal agents in restoring and maintaining health.

From these facts, which cannot be disputed, the most common mind should conclude that cellars, and rooms on the northern side of buildings or apartments into which the sun does not immediately shine, should never be occupied as family rooms, or chambers, or as libraries or studies. Such apartments are only fit for storage; or purposes which never require persons to remain in them over a few minutes at a time. And every intelligent and humane parent will arrange, that the family-room and chambers shall be the most commodious, lightest and brightest apartments in the dwelling.

—Dr. Hal.

Those copperheads who see nothing to approve in the policy of the President, and nothing to condemn in the course pursued by Jeff. Davis and his followers, may see the peculiar excellency of Southern conscription over that adopted by the government. They leave no cause of complaint on the ground of inequality or partiality, as [illegible].

GUY R. PHELPS, Secretary.

Hartford, February 1st, 1863.

The losses during the year past (as was anticipated,) have been unusually large, amounting to three hundred and sixty-three thousand four hundred and eighty dollars, on one hundred and forty-four lives. Though the mortality is greater than last year, it does not exceed the ratio of the table upon which the premiums are predicated, and as in last year's business, the interest on the investment exceed the losses.

Of the war risks, seven have been slain in the field, or subsequently died of their wounds, and seven have died of sickness in camp, or after being discharged; but the extra war premiums have exceeded the losses by such policies.

Of the insured who have died during the year, 15 has paid but one premium; 17, two; 12, three; 7, four; 5, five; 4, six; 5, eight; 7, nine; 2, ten; 4, eleven, 12, twelve; 22, thirteen; 10, fourteen; and 15, fifteen premiums each.

Three millions ninety-three thousand four hundred and ninety-one dollars have been paid to the families and creditors of the Insured, since the organization of the Company; and over two millions and one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars have been returned to policy holders in dividends. Two hundred and sixteen thousand six hundred and eighty-eight dollars have been paid in dividends during the year past. These disbursements for dividends will indicate what the accumulation would have been now, had this Company, like some others, paid no dividends except upon the death of the insured.

This Company, organized in 1846, on a system entirely Mutual, furnishes Insurance in all the various forms, and to meet all the various contingencies for which Life Insurance is desired, at the actual cost to the policy-holders.

There is no Stock or Guarantee Fund to absorb the profits, but all the surplus is annually credited to to the policy-holders as dividends in proportion to the amount of the premium they pay, and may be appropriated to the payment of renewal premiums, after the first four years. This is the only Company in the United States which allows a dividend upon every payment of premium.

The Directors have ordered the dividend of 1863 to be paid during the current year, as the renewals become due and are paid—by reduction of the premium of those who have paid all cash, or cancelling the notes of those who have given notes for one-half.

E. D. Tiffany,	Charles L Thayer, Boston

The credit or note system as adopted by this Company, is liable to be misunderstood, being often misrepresented by persons acting for, or interested in Companies requiring all cash payments. It is frequently represented that in a series of years "there will accumulate a large amount of premium notes as a debt against the policy to be handed over to heirs in payment of the policy or in lieu of money." Fraudulent or incompetent ignorance only could suggest such an illustration as applicable to this Company, as the annual payment of dividends adopted by this Company, applies in payment of the notes annually given for premiums; consequently the accumulation can never exceed four notes, and to provide for them there will be a corresponding number of dividends. The assured, however, are not required to give a note, but can, if they prefer, pay all in cash, in which case the dividends will be applied to a reduction of their premiums, which, if the previous success of the Company is continued, will reduce the annual payments to nearly or quite one-half, after the fourth payment. See the Report of the Massachusetts Commissioners, for 1860, for a complete vindication of the advantages to the Insured, and the security to the Company, of the note or half-credit system of Life Insurance.

Applications, statements and all information relative to Life Insurance, furnished gratuitously by the undersigned.

LYON'S KATHAIRON.

Kathairon is derived from the Greek word "Kathro," or Kathairo," signifying to cleanse, rejuvinate, and restore. This article is what its name signifies. For preserving, restoring and beautifying the human hair it is the most remarkable preparation in the world. It is owned and put up by the original proprietor, and is now made with the same care, skill and attention which gave it a sale of over one million bottles per annum.

It is a most delightful Hair Dressing.
It eradicates scurf and dandruff.
It keeps the head cool and clean.
It makes the hair rich, soft and glossy.
It prevents the hair from falling off and turning gray.
It restores hair upon bald heads.

Any lady or gentleman who values a beautiful head of hair should use Lyon's Kathairon. It is known and used throughout the civilized world.—Sold by all respectable dealers.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE AND EAR WATER.

This is the Best Preparation in the World!

READER, are you aware that every time you think, speak or act, you draw on your eyes for strength to do so? Now you are debtor to them, and if they have not arrested your body and shut it up in the prison of disease, remember they most assuredly will if you do not satisfy their claim (which is a small one) for all the services they render to you continually. They are crying to you for help every blood streak is a voice. Hear their cry, and save yourself by saving them. Give them a drink of POOR RICHARD'S EYE WATER; Morning and Night. This is all they ask, and they will positively keep your body out of the prison house of disease. They do not want to lose time in explanations. Try them and prove them. By faithful perseverance, Deafness can be cured and prevented.—Bathe both eyes and ears.

A Remarkable Cure in Bangor.

I, W. H. PRITCHARD, do certify that my wife Esther S., has had Weak Eyes from childhood, caused by measles. One year since a lump appeared on the lash of her eye. It increased to the size of a large pea. Becoming somewhat alarmed about the progress it was making I took my wife Mrs. M. G. BROWN, at the Exchange. She told me she could remove it, and further strengthen her eyes. Mrs. B. applied her medicine at seven o'clk in the evening, and at nine o'clock the lump was gone. We considered no more of it. My wife can now see people walking on the other side of the street, which she could never do before. She has always had headache when riding in a carriage. Yesterday, when riding in a carriage, he had no return of headache. My own eyes were treated two or three times by Mrs. Brown. I find them much strengthened. W. H. PRITCHARD, 169 Pine street.

Thousands of certificates might be added. Use POOR RICHARD and throw away your SPECTACLES.

LOSS OF SLEEP!

To the Sleepless invalid it gives the most refreshing sleep.

To Females, suffering the pains of Monthly Menstruation, it completely relieves, while Nature's work is undisturbed. This is of great importance, as from this source dates most, if not all, wrecks to the Nervous System, and Chronic Female Complaints.

For Stomach, or Tape Worms, it is a sure remedy.

For children, when Teething, it completely soothes the pain, by diluting with milk and rubbing the Gums. When very severe give it in 5 to 10 drop doses in milk, and is a perfect relief

HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS.

This Valuable and Simple PILL rests for character on being the true type of a CATHARTIC,—simple, though thorough in action, seldom requiring but a SINGLE PILL for a dose, or one at night and one at morning—acts without the least griping.

AND CURES

Dyspepsia,
Indigestion,
Billiousness,
Loss of Appetite,
Jaundice,
Humors, &c., &c.

For HEAD ACHE, when caused by a foul Stomach, they are a perfect relief.

For WORMS are a perfect remedy.

As a FAMILY PILL they have no superior.

American & Foreign Patents,

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS, Late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, Washington, (under the Act of 1837.)

76 State Street, opposite Kilby Street, BOSTON.

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also, in Great Britain, France, and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, of ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is more successful at the Patent Office than the subscriber; and as success is the best proof of advantages and ability, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate. The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges." JOHN TAGGART.

During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor by the Commissioner of Patents. R. H. EDDY.
